

Still important manpower requirements at is AG

Lack of engineers as an obstacle to growth...

Nuremberg / Salzburg. Good news from the employment market have become very rare, for the Nuremberg is group, however, this has a different meaning: The company is urgently looking for qualified technicians and engineers the employment market, however, does not offer enough potential. In total, the globally active engineering-company needs approximately 100 new engineers, among them already 30 engineers. The most important needs exist in the field of machine and equipment construction in the sites in Nuremberg, Stuttgart and Hamburg.

As service provider, growth can only be realized by means of additional employees, says the CEO Peter Dinstühler: „We still have to refuse orders for reasons of capacities. Since we are active in the upper market segment, we unfortunately can't use the employment market to cover our demand", says Dinstühler, who attaches a great importance to absolute quality orientation.

For Austria, where the company in Salzburg – the is Industrial Services GmbH - focuses in particular on the strong growing sector building engineering, and where already 105 persons are employed, also a massive amount of employees is required. As a consequence of the boom it becomes apparent that the four-storey building in the Hinterfeldstrasse in Salzburg, which was only opened in 2004 must soon be extended by another building of the same size. After five years only, the company has become one of the leading engineering companies for building engineering in Austria.
